

eNEWSLETTER OF THE PARISHES OF BALMAIN AND ROZELLE, ARCHDIOCESE OF SYDNEY

(YEAR B) 26 September 2021
FROM THE ADMINISTRATOR

Dear Parishioners,

Day light saving commences next weekend on Sunday (3 October). We 'wind' our clocks forward one hour.

The vaccination debate: There is some controversy about treatment of people who, for various reasons, do not wish to be vaccinated against Covid-19. My understanding is that an unvaccinated person who is infected (presumably without knowing it) can carry a higher viral load making him or her more infectious as well as being more vulnerable to more serious symptoms. Therefore, the consequences of remaining unvaccinated affect both one's neighbour and oneself. Further, if one requires hospitalisation, one may be using medical resources which are then denied to someone else requiring treatment for other ailments (and who is vaccinated). These are moral issues which are at least as important as some other moral issues, for example, the origins of some vaccines in research using tissue from aborted fetuses. In other words, it is quite a complicated and subtle debate.

It seems to me that, with respect to whether clergy and parishioners should be given the odious task of excluding people from Mass, the best thing to do is to simply retain, for the time being, the rules which we all followed when no one was vaccinated, that is, masks and social distancing (and no congregational singing). So much time is already spent by the clergy and parish staff on policing Covid regulations and filling in endless forms on Safeguarding that it simply is not practicable for us to be organising and supervising vigilantes at every Mass, even if we could find volunteers to do it. What do you think?

Last week, I mentioned Pope Francis's suggestion that we all read Dante's Divine Comedy in the coming year, and asked for expressions of interest. One parishioner has suggested using Clive James's translation, which he says is very readable. Please find the details of James's book and a review. I am wondering whether anyone would like to undertake researching an introduction to Dante and his great work – I know we all have so much spare time during Covid! Another parishioner has suggested establishing a schedule for private reading and then meeting regularly to talk about it – say once a week or fortnightly. We still have time to think about all this things but it would be good to begin by Advent Sunday, I think.

The Plenary Council: John Dickie has provided more materials about the Plenary Council which begins next Sunday 3 October – it is being conducted by Zoom. See below.

Charitable Works Fund: You will also find attached a document regarding the appeals for the Charitable Works Fund. Once again it has a lot of material on it and various links to videos and so on. An awful lot of work goes into all this and I am not sure how many people actually download and read or watch these communications – there is so much stuff coming in through the internet that it is a full time occupation reading it all and by the time one has finished an entire working day has passed without actually having done anything. So much information! Some of you will make contributions but I think this is something we may respond to from our general parish revenue this year.

Humanitarian crises unfolding in Afghanistan and Lebanon

In Afghanistan, people have been forced from their homes, with half of the population in urgent need of food, water, shelter and protection.

In Lebanon, the country is running out of power, water, fuel, medicine and food. Even hospitals are facing massive fuel shortages and will soon have to turn off the lights.

Please donate to Caritas Australia so that we are able to respond to crises like these and others across the world.

1906: BALMAIN AS IT IS NOW

S.N. Hogg

Our new Sugar Refining Coy, Poolman Bros. and Co., will relieve many of the unemployed in Balmain, giving them honest work. They are capital of £30,000 invested in land plant and buildings. The partners in the firm are the sons of the late highly respected Frederick Poolman. Many old members will remember him as the many for many years of the Colonial Sugar Co. at Pymont, associated with Mr Knox.

We have in our midst the Working Men's Institute, peculiarly adapted to meet the tastes and habits of residents of a suburb pre-eminently industrial in their modes of livelihood. By the courtesy of their secretary, Mr Lewis, and of their president, Mr Goodsir, I have been supplied with the following facts.

The Institute was founded on 21st May, 1865, very nearly 40 years ago. The first office bearers were, President, E.W. Cameron: Trustees, Rev. A. Mansfield, and Messrs John Booth, and H. Perdrian. Two rooms at the rear and under the present Oddfellow's Hall were rented at 6s per week and 96 members joined the first quarter. The number of members now on the roll is about 700. The site on which the present buildings stands was purchased in 1887, and the first portion – ground floor – of the present edifice erected the same year. In 1903 the building was added to, and again in 1896, and finally in 1903 it was completed as it now stands. The Institute is of a nature which cannot fail to commend itself to those who avail themselves of the rational amusements so necessary in a working community. Mr Irwin A. Lewis has been secretary continuously since 1882 and he tells me that the Institute is flourishing most satisfactorily, and that they have now 5000 volumes in their circulating library.

(The Working Men's Institute is still standing and is at 332, Darling Street)

James Fleming 1878-1938. James Fleming was the Manager of Callan Park Mental Hospital when died in September 1938. His funeral was held at St Joseph's Rozelle and described as "an excellent Catholic" in the Death Register. Mr Fleming had been associated with the Mental Hospital Department for 42 years as manager at Stockton, Kenmore and most recently Callan Park. He also served at Parramatta, Rydalmere, Gladesville and Morisset Mental Hospitals.

Continuing the Fleming family's involvement in medical areas, his son, Justin graduated from Medicine at Sydney University in 1940 and took up a residency at St Vincent's Hospital. During WW2 he joined the medical branch of the Royal Australasian Air Force, serving at home and abroad for three and a half years. On demobilization he took on further study building up a large practice that was noted for his technical skill and his kindness to his patients. He was highly regarded by his colleagues as an original thinker: he introduced and fostered the idea of surgical audit and developed new methods in teaching and patient care. He was a pioneer of peripheral vascular surgery in Australia where he was one of the first to resect an abdominal aortic aneurysm. He travelled abroad extensively to visit vascular centres in Britain and the USA and was deeply concerned with achieving the highest possible standards throughout Australia.

POSTPONED EVENTS

The following events have been postponed: At Home to farewell Fr Gregory, our Poetry Evening with Professor Barry Spurr, and the performance of 84 Charing Cross Road by the Hunter's Hill Theatre Company. BRIEF ANSWERS TO THE BIG QUESTIONS

Q. What do you think are the most important unasked or unexplored questions by humans today? I can only echo Einstein's comment: the most incomprehensible thing about the world is that it is comprehensible. Why do we find ourselves in a vast and complicated universe that obeys laws that we can discover and understand? - Stephen Hawking, Brief Answers to the Big Questions, 236.
